The sinks are being made from the river stone of volcanic origin mined in Indonesia. They feature with the outstanding characteristics and unique appearance. Such sinks, for sure, would enrich the interior of a bathroom or a kitchen. The river stone incorporated into your interior will emphasize the naturalness and eco-friendliness of your space. As well as that, the natural materials are very practical and durable. Such decorative elements will be delighting your eyes for many-may years.

FEATURES OF SINKS MADE OF RIVER STONE

The natural materials, unlike the artificial ones, have a number of peculiarities important not only during the use. On top of that, the techniques of manufacturing of different items from them differ as well.

First of all, the river stone sinks are being made from a single piece of stone by cutting off all the excess material and further grinding. The stone is grinded in order to reduce the natural porosity and increase the sink life time. Then, the sink is to be polished. It is done to clog the pores in order to increase the resistance of sink to moisture and coloring substances. This procedure also reduces the expansion and contraction ratio of a material in case of temperature dropping. The river stone sinks can be of the different shapes. As a rule, one model doesn't resemble another one. It is impossible to find the stones of the same shape in wild nature, so all the sinks

ADVANTAGES OF SINKS MADE OF RIVER STONE

As it has been mentioned above, the sinks made of the natural materials have their own peculiarities and undeniable advantages compared to the sinks made of the man-made materials.

- Durability. This is, perhaps, one of the main advantages of the river stone sink. Despite the fact that the cost of such sink may seem rather high, it will be serving you for several decades and retain its astonishing look for a long time.
- High rigidness. Our sink can withstand even a fairly strong blow or drop. Even despite the repeated temperature droppings, no signs of use would ever remain on its surface.
- Non-susceptibility to dyes and chemicals. The sinks made of natural materials retain their original look throughout their entire service life time.
- Eco friendliness. Our sinks are eco-friendly and safe as they are crafted from the solid piece of stone without any toxin-releasing adhesives and other synthetic materials.
- Presentable look. The sink made of the river stone will inevitably become a real treasure of your interior because of its rich, astonishing appearance and extraordinary look.
- Diverse designs. We can craft the sink of any shape for you. All the visions and shapes in our work are inspired by the nature. And this is where all the uniqueness hides. You can't
